DURHAM, N. H., OCTOBER 13, 1932.

RECENT developments in student thought and action have led us to believe that a turn for the better is imminent in the University student life. For some time it has been slumbering in a sort of coma which seemed permanent. This year's development in student interests and independent thinking strikes us as more individualistic than in recent years. Campus leaders are showing more of the spark of independence which should mark university life—that spark that will keep each student from becoming just another labelled product out of the factory of formal education and lend more toward developing and retaining that individualism so necessary to compete with the world of affairs.

FDAY or two ago the final touches were added to the fine set of tennis courts in the rear of Fairchild and Hetzel Halls. Students are already keeping the porous slate surfaces busy with tennis matches in spite of approaching winter. Now that we have these long-sought improvements it is only just that we treat them with the best possible care.

Superintendent of Property Lovering has told us that each court was constructed at a cost averaging nearly one thousand dollars, that the surfaces are sufficiently porous to make playing possible five minutes after a rain, and that the surface may become severely damaged by neglecting to wear regulation tennis shoes or rubber soled shoes. He intimated that if the student body would not cooperate to the extent of wearing proper foot gear, it might be necessary to prohibit the use of the courts except by permit and the payment of a fee.

Therefore, it is very important that the student body be considerate enough to play only while wearing the proper shoes.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE is conducting a student poll on the coming presidential elections to determine the student political trend at the University. The voting will be done Wednesday near Thompson Hall and under the supervision of the Student Council.

We hope that the students will take the poll seriously enough to vote and also to cast a thoughtful vote. It is more and more important that university students interest themselves in the government of their country. We've heard innumerable remarks to the effect that the youth of the country are the expected saviors of this and that and everything. And if we must get deeply involved at some time, as we very likely shall, then we might as well be prepared as much as possible. From time immemorial the older generation has been blamed for everything the youth are supposed to straighten out. When we become the older generation, let's have a different comeback. Let's tell them that they are expected to carry on from where we left off, and not rearrange the whole system.

HE coming to New Hampshire of Dr. Gibson R. Johnson marks an advance in the conception of the function of Christian Work on campus.

Dr. Johnson has been called to the task not as a Y. M. C. A. secretary but, as director of Christian Work, to study the local campus and in cooperation with faculty and students build a program which will meet the religious needs. He will work with Y. M. C. A. groups but also with Y. W. C. A., church, and faculty groups. Miss Aspinwall will continue as his associate in the work. Both are interested in Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish students alike and both will make every effort to forward understanding and cooperation between groups as well as assist with individual group programs.

Dr. Johnson, as a member of the University faculty, will give considerable time to teaching in the department of History, which may necessitate some rearrangement of certain Christian Work activities.

The reorganization of Christian Work is in line with what is going on in universities throughout the country. At Maine, religious work centers in the Maine Christian Association composed of both men and women and headed by Cecil Fielder. Cornell has its United Religious Work program under the direction of R. H. Edwards. Pennsylvania has a like plan. At Iowa, a School of Religion is an integral part of the University.

The building of an adequate program cannot be done in a day, but New Hampshire seems to have taken a step in the right direction.

THE Student Council of this year is showing more life and interest in student affairs than it has for some seasons. One of the first steps taken to make closer contact with the student body was to make the Editor-in-Chief of THE NEW HAMPSHIRE a member of the body in order that its activities may be followed closely in THE NEW HAMPSHIRE and to enable student problems as viewed by the staff to come before the Council in a more direct manner. The actions of the Council may be followed by the students in the future by referring to a special column which will be reserved for their use in the paper.

The Council is responsible for the purchase of the wildcat, for sending the band to Harvard, for governing class elections, the student presidential poll, and the mayoralty campaign, and is now making plans for sending the band to Dartmouth.

TWENTY-FIVE TO RECEIVE DEGREES

Requirements for graduate and undergraduate degrees at the last session of the University Summer School were completed by 25 students. Ten earned credit for Ed. M. degrees, three for M. A. degrees, and twelve for undergraduate degrees. These degrees will be awarded next June. There was an unexpected increase in registration due to the American Institute of Cooperation meeting in this campus for the first time this year. The Institute was in session from July 18 to August 13. The registration showed an increase in the science and music classes.

Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, Secretary of the World Federation of Education Associations, Dr. Charles S. Meek, Superintendent of Schools, Toledo, Ohio, and Dr. Bessie Goodykowitz, National Assistant Commissioner of Education, were guest instructors.

EDUCATION NEWS

The Portland branch of the University of New Hampshire Alumni Association met at the home of Alumnus Oscar Hughes at Gorham, Maine, recently. The speaker at the meeting was Professor Justin O. Wellman of the Education Department. The Education Department of the University will attend the State Teachers' Association meeting to be held on October 21 and 22.

STRAND TO SHOW "GRAND HOTEL"

Five stars instead of one shine in Grand Hotel, picturization of the Vicki Baum novel and play, which will head the program at the Strand Theater in Dover, next Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

The play ran in New York for more than a year with similar success accorded its presentation in other American cities and the capitals of Europe.

In bringing it to the screen Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer placed five of its major stars in the central characterizations and engaged Edmund Goulding, director of Devil's Holiday and The Trespasser, to handle the assignment. The cast is headed by Greta Garbo, with John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, and Lionel Barrymore playing outstanding roles. Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt are featured in the large supporting cast. The story, which takes place entirely within the confines of a fashionable Berlin hotel, entwines the lives of a varied group of persons, including an exotic Russian dancer whose romantic interlude with a reckless baron saves her from suicide but results in her lover's murder. Involved in the drama are a scheming business man, a seductive stenographer, a consumptive clerk spending his savings on one last fling in life, a shell-shocked doctor, and the hotel's head porter. How these people are all brought together and how their various intrigues and adventures change the course of their entire lives forms the theme of the plot.

by H. B. McLaughlin

Well, my children, you know there is a new ruling that you mustn't go in the great big dark bleachers after dark? It isn't nice for a boy and girl to be all alone after the shades of night have fallen. Why? Oh, just because our authorities have agreed upon that point. It's for your own good, my dears. After all, you are only about twenty years old, and at your tender ages there are many evils that superior authorities must guard against for you. Remember, your lily white reputations must be unsoiled.

Now, why doesn't that supreme authority call out the Military Science students to do guard duty, as previously suggested? The practical experience for the students and the lessening of expense for the University, both would make this course a desirable one.

Now, children, go to your rooms every night after dark and study real hard. Then go to bed. Never, under any conditions, go to the bleachers, because the boogey man will get you if you don't watch out.

Diary of a modern Pepsy—Saturday, October 8th:

Up betimes this morning to get an early start for the Harvard-New Hampshire game in puritanical Boston. Went to two boresome classes, packed my bag, and so to Boston, giving three pretty co-eds a ride. Arrived at the Bradford Hotel at one o'clock, and obtained a room, for which, the management made me pay in advance (apparently not liking my appearance). So to lunch at Peroni's where a pretty brunette sat opposite me, directing her eyes toward me every few moments. I was quite flattered, until I suddenly discovered that her attention was being held, not by me, but by a tall man with a moustache who was sitting directly behind me.

Took a subway to the stadium. During the trip, got lost twice, finally arriving at my destination safe and sound, physically, if not mentally. The game was fast with all of the speed on Harvard's part. Two touchdowns right off with both points after, good. A moment of lull, then more touchdowns. But on the whole, the New Hampshire team played better than I had expected, with the game ending 40-0, and so back to the hotel. Had dinner at a five cent hamburger stand which stood about fifty feet from the Lido Palace. Back to my room.

Drove to Lasell College for a date, at which place, I had to convince the Dean of Women that I was the cousin of the girl in question. I did. So back to the Bradford for the dance, only to get lost three times in all of the towns by the name of "Newton" in the state of Massachusetts. Finally arrived at the dance which, if not wringing wet, was, at least, very damp around the edges (no one was in the center).

It was an interesting affair with no one, I believe, being the slightest bit bored. "Dick" Auerbach was there with our old friend, Mary Haley, and so too was "Joe" Toolin, escorting anyone, or everyone, as nearly as I could make out. Then there was "Bob" McGuirk with a beautiful blonde whose address, he claimed, he did not know. "Pete" Barker and "Bill" Rugg ambled in with two "fair ones," and innumerable others, the names of whom, I cannot remember just yet. The elevators were kept very busy, carrying people up to their rooms one minute, and back downstairs to the dance the next. The dance closed at twelve midnight (puritanical Boston, you know) and the revelers went off to various parties here and there in the hotel. And so to bed.

Random sights: Bob Dow weakly leaning against the rail in the elevator in the Bradford Hotel and complaining that he did not like elevators anyway.

—Harry Croke in the stadium, heartily giving the team audible (very much so) moral support.—The two sophomores who strolled into the dance with cigars stuck in their faces at a 45-degree angle.—Joseph Toolin, graciously granting a member of the New Hampshire staff an interview on the dance floor, and informing him that he will consent to run for Mayor of Durham on the people's platform.—The drunk who staggered up to the author of this column on the Bradford dance floor, and hiccupped.

"Shay, where's my woman?" I'm sure that I didn't know and I politely told him so. "Well, hic—you had her last," he remonstrated. I informed him that I hadn't been aware of the fact. "You can have her; I'll give her to you," he graciously offered, and walked off in a somewhat undignified manner. (I failed to appreciate a gift that I had never seen, so I decided that I had better get a little air.)

Wonder who the three men were who occupied Room 735 in the Bradford, and the three strange women who were in 1127? All on the up and up, we assure you. And why didn't a certain gentleman escort his woman companion to her home before six in the morning? How about it, Bill?

Your columnist is being threatened with libel suits, more of them than a dozen courts could handle, but I hasten to assure you that everything in this column is well founded.

After this last week-end, it would seem like a better idea to have classes (Continued on Page 4)

Alumni Notes

Before the Harvard game rally at the Hotel Bradford last Friday night, a business meeting of the Boston Club was held. Officers elected for the coming year were: William P. Nelson, '23, president; Melbourne W. Cummings, ex-'29, vice-president; Catherine Grady, '27, secretary; and Samuel Patrick, Jr., '23, treasurer. About sixty alumni were present at the rally and heard Al Miller, assistant football coach, and Dr. Derric Parmenter, University physician and former Harvard coach. One hundred and fifty couples attended the football dance at the same hotel the next evening.

Professor Justin O. Wellman, head of the Education department of the University, spoke to the members of the Portland branch at a meeting held last Friday night at the home of Oscar Huse, '12, in Gorham, Me. Official reports of the meeting have not as yet been received at the Alumni Office but, from information given by the speaker upon his return, the entire evening was most successful. Mr. Huse repeated his surprise of last fall and served, among other edibles, fresh strawberries.

Now is the time to plan on your return to the campus on Home-Coming Day, October 22. Friendships need to be renewed occasionally; Home-Coming Day serves that purpose perfectly. Won't you be here?

'12—Harwood B. Catlin is registered in the Graduate School of Yale University in the Education department.

'17—Willis H. Hoyt is serving his eleventh year as head of the department of Animal Husbandry and Dairying at the Norfolk County Agricultural School in Walpole, Mass. He is serving, also, as president of the Norfolk County Selectmen Association. At the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., on September 16, Mr. Hoyt met, for the first time since graduation, Harold "Hank" Little. He also met Sherburne Fogg, '15, and Sam Stearns, '18.

'18—Weston Jeffers is conducting a successful insurance business in Northampton and vicinity. His home address is 103 High street, Florence, Mass.

The Editor's Mail

To the Editor of THE NEW HAMPSHIRE:

We wonder if the administration of our most noble institution has ever heard of constitutional rights of citizens, one of which is "That it is the right of any group of citizens to hold public meetings." And in our opinion the freedom of the bleachers comes under the head of a public meeting as there is no admission charged. In addition, a public meeting is classified as "a group of two or more people gathered together for the purpose of discussing current affairs."

The State has a legal right to restrict the places of meeting, but has the State of New Hampshire ever passed a law forbidding the holding of public meetings in the bleachers at Durham at any time? I demand an answer to this question, and if there is such a law, I want to see a copy of it.

The efficient patrolling of the bleachers by our local deputy-inspector is forcing the students to turn night into day, so that now it is the fashion to go strolling in the College or Chi Omega Woods at any hour of the day, even though it may necessitate cutting a class or two.

On a recent trip in the woods during the morning, when classes were supposed to be in session, there were no less than seven couples holding what might have been termed public meetings in the selfsame woods. If the policing of the bleachers is going to lead to the utter abandonment of educational features of the University, then there are only two means left to cope with the situation, namely: give the students the privilege of the bleachers or else discontinue classes.

Personally I am an ardent advocate of the freedom of the bleachers because I sincerely think that the students of the University have been deprived of certain rights and privileges which are legally and justly due them.

I remain, sincerely,
The Green Pen.

Having made the pilgrimage to Cambridge and back in comparative safety, we once again take up the arduous task of attempting to write an interesting column.

As was expected Harvard handed the Wildcats quite a shellacking. The score was a bit higher than most of us had thought it would be, but we all make mistakes sometime.

The Crimson tide ebbed and flowed Saturday afternoon, on Soldiers Field, rolling up a total of twenty first downs and six touchdowns.

At the beginning of the fray New Hampshire played with five man backfield. A Mr. Hardy of Harvard obligingly lent his services to the cause.

"Bob" Haphey's kicking and passing was a feature of the game. And after he was injured, "Jigger" Jaques took over his duties—and did a good job too.

McKiniry, Learmonth, and Dunman were the best of the New Hampshire linemen. Hardy was of course head and shoulders above any line-man on the field.

Crickard, Wells, Nevin, Grady, Pescosolido, and Locke carried the bulk of the Crimson attack—and did they carry it!

"Dutch" Knox, converted end, made the longest run from scrimmage of any New Hampshire backs. He got away for twelve yards around right end in the second period.

"Tubby" Clark, Wildcat quarterback, is the smallest player to appear on Soldiers Field in a decade. Booth, Yale's "Mighty Atom" weighed a couple of pounds less than Clark, but is a little taller.

TRACK, FIELD MEET STARTS OCT. 20

Competition Divided into Two Classes to Replace Old Handicaps

The second Annual Fall Track and Field Meet will be held on Memorial Field, October 20, 24 and 25 under the direction of Coach Paul C. Sweet with prizes being awarded to the three best men in each event. According to the usual practice, the competitors will be divided into two classes in order to eliminate the faults of the old Annual Fall Handicap Track Meet.

Entrants in the meet will be divided, according to experience and ability, into classes "A" and "B" and all competing from scratch. Last year over a hundred and fifty men competed for medals; this year, ribbons, suitably inscribed, will be awarded to the first three finishers in each event. Registration begins October 17 and continues until the day the event in which the competitor wishes to enter is scheduled.

Classification is as follows: Class "A": Any man who has placed in an intercollegiate or dual varsity or freshman track and field meet or cross-country race, or any open meet sanctioned by the A. A. U. in these sports, or has placed first or second in any interscholastic track and field or cross-country meet; also any man who has represented the University as a member of the varsity or freshman relay team in intercollegiate competition. Class "B": Any man in a four year course who does not come within the limits of class "A." No man may enter in more than three events and may not compete in any event in which he is not entered without the permission of the referee of the meet. A man who qualifies in class "A" in three events will be allowed to compete only in class "A"; a man who qualifies in two class "A" events may compete in one class "A" event; and a man who qualifies in one class "A" event may compete in two class "B" events. A class "A" man eligible to compete in a class "B" event must enroll in the events before the meet begins on the day that event is held. Registration is in the office of Coach Sweet.

HARRIERS WIN FIRST CONTEST

Varsity Cross-Countrymen Triumph by Perfect Score from Boston Rivals

HUSKIES LOSE TO N. E. TITLEHOLDERS

Captain deMoupiel Fails to Compete as Bill Andberg Leads

The University of New Hampshire cross country team, New England intercollegiate champions, paid their first social call of the year on the Northeastern Huskies at Franklin Park, Boston, last Saturday afternoon and came away victors by the perfect score, 15-45. The Wildcats finished the first six men in the race, "Bill" Andberg breaking the tape far ahead of the other runners.

The New Hampshire team was without the services of Captain deMoupiel for the meet because of his leg ailment. In spite of this seeming handicap, his team mates walked away with the meet with little trouble.

Coach Paul C. Sweet said that he was "quite pleased with the showing of the team considering that it had but three weeks of practice." He stated further, "The team did as well as could be expected although the time was not as good as that of last year over the same course." Northeastern has probably as good a club as any other college in Boston with the exception of Harvard and will be an aggregation to be considered when the New England roll around.

William Andberg, winner of the race, finished in 29 minutes, 23 3/5 seconds which is not bad this early in the season. George Lamb, the Huskies' leading man, came in seventh. Last year he finished second and under the record in the N. E. I. C. A. A. freshman race. He will be a man to be watched a little later in the season, especially in the New England.

Next Saturday the Wildcats entertain the University of Maine in Durham. The "down easters" came in second last year at the New England in both the freshman and varsity races. Little is known of the Bears this year but "a very close meet" is expected by Coach Sweet. This is the first meet of the season for the Maine team.

The result of the Northeastern race is as follows: William Andberg (NH); first; second, Henry Raduag (NH); third, William Benedict (NH); fourth, Elton Glover (NH); fifth, Edward Blood (NH); sixth, Richard Low (NH); seventh, George Lamb (NU); Captain Langley Morang (NU); ninth, Howard Rines (NH); tenth, Howard Brooks (NH).

Campaign for Durham Mayor

went on an oratorical tour and dragged in the Rocky Mountains by the heels. He stopped to refuel on the sunny strands of the Red Sea and lighted his pipe on the Aurora Borealis.

"It was beautiful. But, as he was zooming with the cherubim and seraphim over the white gossamer clouds in the Pearly Gates of Heaven, the presiding judge rapped his gavel and bellowed, 'Return to Anocostia, the scene of the crime!'"

"The colored man got six years. Mr. Mayor would get one year and this candidate might get the bounce, in spite of the fact that he never returned to the scene of the crime. It is as cut and dried as the sacred hair from the holy and revered beard of Moses or Mohammed. It's in the bag like a Long Island potato."

Herbie (Old Maestro) Schnare, of College Inn fame, claims to be the sole surviving member of the class of 1930. If there are any others he would like to see them and they will hold a reunion. Schnare will bring into the campaign the Freudian freshness of expert sex-psychology and promises to put on a mass exhibition of what a man would do if he were all alone on a desert island with a beautiful woman and couldn't reach the dean of women. He expects to conduct a musical campaign with the theme song If You Were Left Behind, What Did I Do Before. It is a problem song, he admits, and as the paper goes to press he would not reveal the answer. His campaign manager, who was hiding under the bed and later came out with tears in his sleeves, announced that he had prepared or was preparing to prepare a motto, which was to run something like this, "Schnikel, schnappy, Schnare will shoot the shivering shons of mountaneers."

Shortly before midnight a call came in from precinct headquarters that one of the dark horses had been identified by a masked man who refused to take charge of the body after hearing of his political aspirations. The tag now attached reads Barron Rogers and upon questioning he revealed that he had kept his name secret because of the fear that his sorority duties would make it impossible for him to run. He stated that he did not wish to raise any false hopes in the electorate if it should prove impossible for him to serve as candidate. When asked what influenced him to run he bared his teeth (both of them) and snarled, "The right to bare arms is being infringed upon by the nefarious vice squad now patrolling the bleachers,—ah, the bleachers."

Police Commissioner Looee Bourgoon, conducting a private investigation, discovered that one of the two remaining dark horses was a mare. This recalls the days of 1929 when another mare was presented to the electorate. The present contender of the subtle sex refused repeatedly to reveal her name, platform, or even

HUSKIES LOSE TO FROSH HARRIERS

Single Husky Finishes Among First Six as N. H. Attempts to Stage Dead Heat of Six Men

New Hampshire's freshman harriers started their season with a win over the yearlings of Northeastern University in Franklin Park, Boston, last Saturday by the score, 18 to 43.

Only one Northeastern man finished among the first six. There was considerable doubt as to actual positions at the finish, the men were so closely bunched. According to the opinion of the judges of the finish, the order of the finish of the Kittens was as follows: Webster, Tinker, Woodman, McLean, Thompson and Matthews. These men ran as a group from the beginning of the meet until the end; an attempt to make a dead heat, being frustrated by a Northeastern runner who caught up in time to gain third place. These men were followed by Fletcher of Northeastern and three more New Hampshire men, the last of whom got a cramp near the beginning of the race but finished.

Coach Sweet was well pleased with the showing of the Kittens who ran under the leadership of acting captain, "Dave" Webster.

October 15, the freshmen run the only home race of their schedule in a triangular meet with Manchester Central and Nashua High Schools. Last year these two teams outran the Dartmouth freshmen. Little is known of their strength this season.

what cigarettes she smokes. However, she did admit that she was merely carrying on the tradition of the family by entering the Durham political bull ring. The telephone number is 214.

Mayor Croke, present occupant of the swivel chair, announced that he would support Joe Toolin, class of '32, 5. This announcement came as a complete surprise to the political forecasters since Toolin was a member of the opposing camp in the elections of last fall. It is rumored that his honor will stand, or at least walk, for Governor following the election of his successors.

"The Republicans may go to the polls on a dry platform," said the Mayor, "but they'll need rubber boots to walk back."

His Honor was reticent about the campaign upon the whole. In reference to the local crime wave, he said, "I have every confidence in the municipal police force; they are doing everything in their power to halt these mysterious threats. The new radio-equipped cars will be on the street in a few days, so get your short wave sets in order and be ready to move."

Sex and savage sport struck a respondent note in our ever youthful mayor. "The duty on imports will be abolished at the next meeting of the council," His Honor asserted. "The hunting season is on; several of the hunters bogged down in the mud in front of Scott Hall. The game warden, Looee, arrested two. They lacked hunting licenses. Hunting licenses can be obtained at the office of the mayor."

FRATERNITY HOOP SEASON OPENS IN TWO LEAGUES

Phi Delta Upsilon Upsets Lambda Chi Alpha in Spite of Funston

CLOSE COMPETITION MARKS EARLY GAMES

Last Year's Titleholders Remain Undefeated

Intramural basketball opened October fifth at the University gymnasium with two games. The tournament is being run off in the same manner as in the last few years, the teams being grouped into two leagues.

On the first day, Alpha Tau Omega defeated Theta Chi, 24 to 20 in a fast and closely contested game to open the tournament. The winners were runners up for the title last year and showed considerable strength in downing such a smoothly working team in the opening contest of the season. Stafford stood out for the losers while honors were well divided among the members of the winning team, Clark, Kruger and Toll each scoring six points. In the second game of the day, Kappa Sigma defeated Theta Upsilon Omega, 15 to ten. "Ken" Wood was the outstanding player on the floor, scoring eight points; Dow also contributed much to enable his team to win.

October sixth, the second day of the tournament, Theta Kappa Phi trounced the Phi Alpha team, 21 to three in a rather uninteresting game. White and Slozek ran away with the game as they scored ten and eight points respectively. The second game of the day was the best of the tournament thus far; Phi Delta Upsilon nosed out the powerful Lambda Chi Alpha's in a game that was nip and tuck until the final gun was fired, the score being 21 to 20. Curtis Funston, star of last year's freshman team, played a brilliant game but failed to turn back his more evenly balanced opponents. Funston scored all but one basket for his team while the scoring for the Phi Delta Upsilon club was almost equally divided between Wheeler, Ellsworth and Bowler.

Friday, Tau Kappa Epsilon won over the scrappy Alpha Kappa Pi outfit, 25 to 19. Small and Perkins stood out for the winners while Dube and Blackie shared scoring honors for the losers. In the second game, Sigma Alpha Epsilon submerged the Alpha Gamma Rho team, 35 to two. Magrath rode rough shod over weak opposition, scoring 19 points.

Monday's first game was a rather easy victory for Theta Chi when Phi Mu Delta lost, 22 to ten, Walker and Stafford having a field day. Kappa Sigma, last year's champions, walloped Phi Kappa Alpha, 17 to five, Holt and Prentice leading the attack and Dow continuing his sterling brand of ball by scoring his second basket in the tournament.

Tuesday's opening game between Theta Upsilon Omega and Lambda Chi Alpha was postponed. The second game scheduled turned into a rout as Theta Chi swamped the fighting Delta Epsilon Pi team 58 to 15. Walker and Stafford again could not be stopped and rolled up high scores for their team.

CUBS TO MEET B. U. FRESHMEN

Outcome Uncertain as Cubs Need Practice on Offensive Plays

In preparation for their game with the Boston University freshmen tomorrow on Memorial Field, the freshman football squad has been working out daily.

The freshman coaches are hesitant about predicting the outcome of the encounter as reports say that the Boston University yearlings have one of the strongest eleven ever to invade New Hampshire. The Wildcat cubs started the season with a very inexperienced team and are gradually rounding into shape. The first game with Phillips Exeter Academy showed potential ability in the group in the fact that they held the strong Exeter team to the score, 14-6. The Wildcat yearlings have yet to develop on offensive plays.

The balance of the schedule is—Team "A"—October 22, Dartmouth, '35 at Dartmouth.

October 28, St. Anselm's at Durham.

November 5, Andover at Andover.

November 12, Brown Freshmen at Durham.

Team "B"—October 15, Tilton School at Tilton.

October 21, New Hampton School at Durham.

November 5, Clark School at Durham.

November 11, Brewster at Wolfeboro.

NEW HAMPSHIRE MEETS MAINE

Strong Down Easters Come to Durham Saturday

New Hampshire opens its home football season against the University of Maine on Memorial Field Saturday at two-thirty.

Maine, under Coach Fred Brice, is reputed to have one of the best teams to represent them in years. There are nine veterans left from last year, headed by Calderwood, giant guard, and Romansky, backfield ace.

Although defeated by a strong Holy Cross team last Saturday by the score of 32 to 6, the score does not show the true strength of the Maine line, nor does it show the fact that the Bears outgained the Crusaders two hundred and fifty-eight yards to two hundred and fifty-two. In the Holy Cross game the Maine backs showed a rather weak defense against the Crusaders' aerial attack, but exhibited a strong, diversified attack of their own.

New Hampshire will probably rely greatly on their aerial game, which has featured their two previous contests, for Saturday's game, with Haphey, and possibly Jaques doing the tossing. The Wildcats came out of last week's Harvard game in good physical condition, as there were no serious injuries. So the only regular that will remain out of action is Grafham, quarterback. The team showed great improvement in the Harvard tilt over their appearance against B. U. With the added experience gained in the clash with the Crimson, the Wildcats ought to show a higher caliber of play. Coach Cowell will probably use the team that started the Harvard game against Maine. This team was made up of two seniors, five juniors, and four sophomores, although Morin and Haynes might replace the two sophomores, McDermott and Moriarty as guards.

PHYS ED NOTES

The department of physical education for women is giving instruction in archery, tennis, tap dancing, swimming, individuals, and hockey this fall. By putting particular emphasis on hockey the class competition in this sport should be keener than usual. New hockey sticks and balls have been added to the equipment.

Two large classes in beginners tap dancing are showing rapid improvement in class work. Archery is still an active sport and because of its popularity, Mr. Colin Campbell of the Whittier Craftsmen, Amesbury, Mass., gave an exhibition of both target and flight shooting at four o'clock, Thursday, on the girls' athletic field.

Roger Lambert, '36

That Nan P. Coyne monopoly has squelched itself recently with a first rate linesman of the frosh "A" team barging in and a College Inn sophomore, furnishing respective competition. In other words, Miss Powers is a most popular co-frosh, and we hope that she makes good. Also, may the best man win.

Chesterfields are supposed to have it; (although personally I'd mile it for a Camel) most New Hampshire women have it and the sixth, eighth and eleventh floors of the Bradford most assuredly had their share of it, but there's a certain peculiar tinge of excitement to that ride I was forced to take on the back of a motorcycle (from Exeter to Boston) that I've never quite experienced before. As I have found out, a motorcycle seat is not in the least comparable to a studio couch.

Add to Durham rackets: that frosh who tried to outwit his fellow yearlings by endeavoring to collect "elevator deposits." Another freshman actually tried to sub subscriptions for "fire escape service."

Pete Balon, I was told, is writing altogether too many letters to a certain lass in Massachusetts. In case you don't know, Pete is a regular player on the freshman team.

Paul Burns (Red's little brother) has threatened to criminally assault Rawlph Mott, because his (Mott's) pitiful attempts at strumming a squeaky and delapidated guitar are making him (Burns) wonder if, after all, life is worth living. Mott, incidentally, was almost eliminated last Friday night by some strands of piano wire and a hurlay bag.

The official inside story on why Emery wore those smoked glasses after the Harvard game will be furnished anyone if he will see Chet Durgin, or any of his accomplices. I don't dare, because it's Walter's typewriter that I'm using, and without the wrecked old thing, I would be unable to finish this column in time for the dead-line. (No joke now, Mr. Buckman.)

Our friend Stobie from Ballard has been properly humble, and is so proud of repossessing his skimmer that he insists upon wearing it during the Contemp. lectures.

Don Shaw's back is used to good advantage as an impromptu writing desk by what fair froshies during Geology field trips?

What was the nature of the phone call that sent Joe Miller (not of joke-book fame) in all haste to Congreve last Monday night?

Janice Knapp, Betty Corbett and some unknown beautiful thing persist in walking past Fairchild Hall every night, and Warren Marshall is seriously bothered.

Rumor has it that Pete Lawrence finds some extreme satisfaction in walking back from the Community House every Sunday night, and all the East Hallers are worried about the girl.

And talking about the band, we wonder who furnished the inspiration for the swellgated (apologies to Winchell) showing that our band made at the Harvard Massacre.

What lucky waiter at the College Inn had a standing wager that Harvard would win 39-0? And did he celebrate? Especially at the Bradford with a swell sophomore from Harvard Medical!

And then there was the freshman who called the Co-ed Dress Shop and received a shocked, "What number are you calling?"

Headline in last week's NEW HAMPSHIRE: "President meets Faculty, Staff." Well, better late than never!

What pretty sophomore brunette waited under the Harvard goal posts for a well-known campus-sophomore? And was she ripping?

After the Harvard Massacre: Wandering froshies in search of excitement—A group managing to crash the Coconut Grove and take in a free floor-show—A Fairchilder waiting at the stage-door of the Shubert to feast his eyes on the "Cat and Fiddle" beauties—An anxious frosh travelling back and forth between the Statler and the Bradford trying in vain to find his woman, who was also on the look-out for him—"Mountain," another footballer, on the look-out for much-needed financial aid—The "New Hampshire" ball at the Bradford, floor number seven—Faint reminders, in forms of whiffs and smells, of varied alcoholic indulgences—Filled elevators and empty suitcases travelling the floors—An occasional trip to the Cascade roof for a "breath of air"—All in all a most enjoyable time with no (practically) casualties.

two days a week and a five-day holiday. That would give everyone a grand time and plenty of time to rest up and recuperate.

The black eye which yours truly has been haunting this week was the result of a missile thrown in the dark, believe it or not. Of course, I could have used the door-knob story, but this one is original.

The police force of Durham deserves still more credit. They actually picked up a couple of suspects for the recent fraternity robberies in the College Inn (customers) the other day.

Then there was that lone gentleman who heroically refused five opportunities to go to the Harvard game and spent his week-end in Durham instead. Tell us why, Willie Robert.

It is amusing to watch the football players, who are going in the game to substitute, dash frantically out on to the field, waving report cards like so many grammar school children, running home to mamma. But then, a certain professor would probably wisecrack, "The mentality of the student body is equal to that of grammar school pupils." But who pays any attention to professors?

LOST—A man's Delta Lambda fraternity pin (three stars at top, outlined in pearls) with the initials F. A. R. on back. Finder please return to THE NEW HAMPSHIRE offices.

Isn't it about time for the freshmen to do a little brick scrubbing on the sidewalks of dear old Durham? The Maine-New Hampshire game would be an appropriate time, or shall we wait until the Vermont game, sophs?

"Webster says that taut means tight," wisecracks the Alabama Rammer-Jammer. "Therefore, many college students have been taut." Apparently that magazine is correct if the scenes which we have witnessed lately, prove anything.

Fraternity house rules:

1. No drinking in fraternity houses.
2. Throwing bottles out of the windows is prohibited.
3. Gambling is forbidden in the house.
4. Always place a blanket on the floor before rolling dice.
5. No women allowed in the house.
6. Always bring women into the house by rear fire escape.

You are cordially invited to visit

Christian Work

Dr. Gibson R. Johnson, Director of Christian Work, led the Y. W. C. A. group last Monday evening in a discussion of poise. Next week Mr. Thorsten V. Kalijarvi will speak on Russia.

Miss Edna Dickey went to Bates College at Lewiston, Maine, last Saturday to attend a week-end meeting of the Maqua Council of which she is a member.

Christian Work organizations offer four interests groups this year. These are informal groups to which any student in the University is welcome. They are in no sense courses, but are carried out in any way the students desire. From them deputations are often sent out to churches, granges, and high schools in the state.

All students interested in these groups are asked to meet in Murkland Hall, room 14, Monday evening, October 17, at seven. After a brief word about each interest, the separate groups will hold their first meeting in class rooms in Murkland Hall.

EDUCATION NOTES

A meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, the Honorary Educational Society, was held Monday night, October 10, at the Bickford House. Initiation was held for Barbara Rowell and Mary Daroska. Plans were made to meet with the teachers returning for Home-coming. The meeting, which is supposed to be held the first Monday of every month, had been postponed from October 3, because Mr. Bisbee and Mr. Wellman were attending a conference out of town.

CATERING SERVICE

One of the services the University dining hall performs well, and perhaps not generally recognized, is catering.

To have on the campus an organization equipped to handle in a thoroughly professional manner the demands of the University at Commencement, the reception of the President to the faculty, fraternity and sorority dinners, Dad's and Mother's Day groups is an advantage not to be overestimated.

When planning a group dinner or function, please get an estimate from our dining hall before making your decision.

Not just ordinary dinner plates, but plates with charm, plates with interesting New Hampshire scenes, dear to undergraduates and doubly dear to each and every alumnus.

The name of Spode adds a magic touch; it's a name to compare with in the chinaware field—old English tradition built into our New Hampshire plates.

The price for the set of six is $7.50. Only two hundred sets have been ordered. It is expected that the initial order will be quickly absorbed.

Durham Bull

The week-end was one of success for the cross country teams, as they both ran up impressive wins. In the varsity race "Bill" Andberg was so far ahead of the field that the officials thought he was running in another race. New Hampshire gallopers took six of the first seven places.

No more evening football games. Soon we expect to see forest rangers and mounted policemen patrolling the College Woods. "The land of the free, and the home of the brave." What a laugh!

And here's one on our most noble chief, Romeo. After the game Saturday he entered a Kosher restaurant and ordered HAM. One wonders why.

Classic lines: The sweet co-ed who said, "Oh, do you write Durham Bull? I guess I'll have to begin reading it."

Have you heard the one about the sophomore man who went up to the girls' gym to do a little rope climbing, because there wasn't any rope in the men's gym—oh yeah!

One hears or has heard strange tales about three women who had a room at one of Boston's better hotels. Queer things about bathtubs, bathing caps, and so forth far into the night.

The calcium lights have claimed or plucked one of the boys from our midst. Nothing less than a ten weeks' contract at the Symphony, and it is reported that he is a crooner.

Riding in the elevators at the Bradford could be compared to—well to almost anything. I guess though, that it's just one of those things that happen to everyone at some time or other.

Mayor Croke attended the game in full force. It is rumored—but only rumored that there is a Mrs. Croke in the background.

Then there was the busy New Hampshire at the Bradford who gave his two roommates a quarter and told them to "go out and have a good time."—For why?

There have been some rumors about a barroom on the seventh floor of the Bradford. I would not have called it a barroom exactly.

Please do not pay too much attention to the ramblings of my esteemed friend, Mr. Harry McLaughlin, in his column. He means well, but I'm afraid that his imagination is a bit too vivid—especially where Saturday night is concerned.

I defy you to answer this one: How many tomato juice cocktails were consumed by New Hampshire's Sunday morning and why?

More classic lines: "Let it never be said that the Old Maestro can't take it."

One would think that even freshmen would remember when to start back to Durham, even after a Harvard game, but apparently they don't. But the Statler is a pretty good place at that.

And the wildcat is still called Bozo.
